

Holbeck Viaduct Project

The Holbeck Viaduct Project is a community group working to bring the iconic Holbeck Viaduct in Leeds back into public use for everyone to enjoy. We have recently been incorporated as a Community Interest Company (CIC) and produced a document outlining our vision for the future development of the viaduct: www.holbeckviaduct.org.uk.

Can you join us as a director?

Thank you to everyone who's been part of our journey so far. We've formed the foundations for something potentially fantastic to take off. Now, for this next phase of our journey, we're looking for a body of volunteers to form a board of directors with us.

Our directors will set the strategic direction and co-lead the project. However, because we don't (yet) have a staff team to implement the work, we're ideally looking for people who will have some capacity to play a hands-on role, alongside and with support from a team of other directors.

We are looking for a range of people and skills, ranging from HR to heritage, financials and fundraising, marketing and communications, project management, legal, engineering, architecture, community engagement and regeneration. We are particularly looking to involve local residents.

How to apply

Please email holbeck.viaduct@gmail.com with up to 300 words that cover:

- Why are you applying for the role?
- What skills and experience do you bring?
- How do you foresee being involved, and what capacity do you have to play an active role?

Not compulsory but you may also wish to:

- Attach a current CV
- State if you wish to be considered as a) Chair, b) Secretary, and/or c) Treasurer.
